BULLER TO BE THE VICTIM

British Clamor to Put Roberts or Kitchener in His Place.

GREAT BRITAIN DAZED

News of Buller's Retreat Across the Tugela Struck London Like a Cyclone.

FALL OF LADYSMITH NOW SAID TO BE INEVITABLE.

English Loss in the Ill-starred Ladysmith Relief Rxpedition Must be Enormous—The Defeat and Retreat it is Generally Agreed, Bring Renewed Danger of Continental Intervention—Uncle Sam May be Selected by the Great Powers to Act as Peacemaker—Joy in Europe Over British Reverses.

London, Jan. 29—[Special Cablegram]—It is considered not improbable in view of Buller's retreat that he will lose his command. It is suggested that Roberts or Kitchener succeed him.

The situation today on the eve of the opening of parliament is discouraging. The ministers are bitterly disappointed that they cannot report a victory to the representatives of the people and expect a rough road in carrying through measures to continue the war. Already the opposition is preparing a motion of censure of the government for its unpreparedness in carrying on the war.

Queen's Speech Tomorrow

The queen's speech to parliament will virtually consist of one paragraph and will relate to the war Domestic topics are practically ignored.

Numerous conferences were held at the war office today and the gloomy faces of the ministers and war officials reflect accurately the situation. Crowds of persons looking for information relative to the British losses throng the offices and streets near by.

Explains the Boer Story.

A Central News telegram says: "The ammunition of some of the British troops in the advance trenches became exhausted and the Boers, observing this charged and captured some of our men. Other British troops, however, recovered the trenches." This is supposed to explain the Boer story of the capture of one hundred and fifty British.

A Heavy Casualty List

London, Jan. 29—[Special Cablegram]—An official dispatch from Pietermaritzburg says that fifteen died of fever in Ladysmith Sunday. Spearman's Camp reports that Major Massey of the Royal engineers was killed, and Lieutenant Falcom of the same body, wounded

Rumors from various sources to the effect that Ladysmith has surrendered, is denied by the war office, which also announces that an exceedingly heavy casualty list will be issued tonight.

Dundonald's mounted force has reached the south bank of the Tugela river. This announcement removes much anxiety as it was feared Dundonald was in a precarious position.

Abandonment of Ladysmith.

New York, Jan. 29—[Special Telegram]—The World's London Special says: "Gen. Roberts has advised the abandonment of Ladysmith."

Paris Press Opinion

Paris, Jan. 29—[Special Cablegram]—The Eclair thinks the British retreated before the Boers expected them to do so. Otherwise the Boers would have followed and attacked them while crossing the river. The Gaulois says: "It only remains for the British in Natal to embark at Durban and return home."

BULLER'S RETREAT OVER TUGELA

England Fears that the Powers May Take a Hand.

London, Jan. 29, 5 a. m.—Had London been struck by a cyclone it could not have been more dazed than it was by General Buller's announcement of a retreat across the Tugela, told in an explanation which did not explain. The blow is doubly severe in view of Buller's admonition to his troops less than a week ago, that there would be no turning back this time. The news is received everywhere with disgust.

Buller's losses are untold. Boer sources report that 1,500 British soldiers died in the attempt to reach Ladysmith.

That the continental powers may now take a hand is the expressed view of most of the military experts.

The confession of inability to relieve the sorely distressed Ladysmith garrison and the retreat are more far reaching, both from a moral and physical standpoint than all other reverses of the war combined.

The fall of Ladysmith, all admit, is now inevitable. With Buller's forces again and again repulsed and this time forced to flee, the ability of the Boers to take Ladysmith at their pleasure is not questioned. Experts agree that in every probability the Boers will again assault the garrison and that this time the garrison, in its weakened condition, will stand little show to beat off the enemy.

Even if the Boers do not attack, Gen. White must surely be near the end of his tether in matters of food and ammunition, and may be driven to a last desperate sortie after blowing up his guns and abandoning the sick and wounded, as he did at Dundee.

Of course, the British people cling to the faint hope that Gen White may be able to fight his way through the Boer lines, but the accomplishment of this feat, the experts say, would be nothing short of a miracle.

All the war experts seem to agree that another effect of the retreat even more menacing is renewed danger of continental intervention Suggestions of this sort heretofore have been scoffed at in London, but now their are signs from Berlin, Paris and St. Petersburg, which indicates that the wind is blowing in that direction.

UNCLE SAM MAY BE PEACEMAKER

United States Likely to Act as Mediator in South Africa

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29—In view of the reports of the British defeats in South Africa, and the probability that Ladysmith will soon be compelled to surrender to the Boers, diplomats here would not be surprised to see Washington become the center of interest in the South African controversy. It is predicted that such a success for the Boers as the taking of Ladysmith will encourage the idea of intervention on the part of neutral powers, in the name of humanity, to end the war.

The Hague agreement has been suggested as justifying just such a course, and the feeling in continental Europe is said to have reached an acute stage, not only because of the general sympathy for the Boers, but also because of the arbitrary seizures of neutral vessels and the general interference with neutral commerce by Great Britain.

It is believed that Great Britain will not be allowed to continue to ignore the rights of neutral powers in her effort to subdue the Boers, and that the English government is aware of the danger of intervention or compulsory mediation of her differences with the South African republic.

LEYDS OUTLINES PEACE TERMS

Transvaal Agent Says England Must Yield to Boer Demands

Berlin, Jan. 29—Dr. Leyds confirms the statement telegraphed several weeks ago that the Transvaal begin the war with 36,000,000 cartridges, or double the German consumption in the war of 1870 and 1871, and says the Transvaal is now manufacturing its own ammunition. Dr. Leyds admits that no power contemplates intervention, but is confident that America or Germany will gladly assume the role of honorable broker and that in proper time peace will come, but only when England is willing to grant honorable terms, including the absolute independence of both republics and amnesty to the belligerent Cape Boers.

PHOTOHYPNOTIC EXPOSURES.

De Soto, Mo., Maids and Matrons "Taken" a la Trilby by a Negro.

De Soto, Mo., Jan. 29.—A huge scandal is convulsing this city. The sale of a deceased colored photographer's effects revealed the fact that a number of young girls and matrons had been posing in the altogether for him. As a result one engagement has been broken, and the weeping girl forced into exile after confessing her offense.

The dead culprit's effects had been sold by the public administrator to a couple of amateur phototgraphers. On the developing of a number of negatives these, to their astonishment, proved to be the portrait of lady friends and acquaintances, all prominent in the highest social circles. The gem of the collection was a bathing scene in big river, fourteen miles west. The figures are easily recognizable. All of the other photographs are of single subjects, in various stages of nudity, and were taken with indoor exposures, and are all easily recognizable.

It is claimed by the young women who posed that they were hypnotized by Travis, and had to do as he willed.

READY TO RUSH FOR GOLD.

About 15,000 Men Preparing to Take the First Steamer for Cape Nome.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 29.—Estimates made by local shipping men show that about 15,000 men are intending to report for Cape Nome by the first steamer from Puget Sound and Dawson. Two-thirds of this number will go from Tacoma, Seattle and San Francisco; the remainder will go down the Yukon river from Dawson and other Yukon towns. According to the latest advices, more than half of Dawson's population will head for Nome as fast as the Yukon steamers wintering in the upper river can follow the outgoing ice down stream. Nearly thirty steamers, each carrying from 300 to 1,000 passengers, are now scheduled to sail from coast ports between May 10 and June 1. Fully $3,000,000 worth of supplies have been purchased for shipment on these first steamers.

SENATOR STEBBINS IS A CANDIDATE

IS AFTER REPUBLICAN GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION.

Date for the Convention Will Probably be About March 21—Democrats Have Taken No Action Yet—Hard Job to Raise $100,000 in Milwaukee.

Algoma, Wis., Jan. 29—Senator De Wayne Stebbins was interviewed here yesterday relative to his candidacy for the governorship and in reply to questions, the senator said:

"Yes, I am a candidate for nomination for governor by the republicans at their nominating convention. My name having been mentioned for the place and having received the assurance of many friends of their support, accompanied with urgent requests that I become a candidate, I have decided to do so. If nominated and elected, I shall enter upon the duties of the office unhampered, and shall endeavor to administer the office in the interest of the state in which I have lived all my life."

Republican State Convention.

Reports received from out in the state say there is some objection to the time suggested for the republican state convention to elect delegates to the national convention by Chairman Treat. This date is said to be the last week in March instead of March 21, as first supposed. This would bring the convention right in the middle of the municipal campaign in many of the cities of the state.

Under these circumstances it is probable that the convention will be fixed for the date first mentioned, as that suggested by Chairman Treat.

The democratic state central committee has taken no steps in relation to the democratic delegation convention, and will not do so until after the meeting of the national committee in Washington and the fixing of the date for the national convention. It is likely, however, that it will be held some time in April.

Job to Raise the Money.

The men who have been for several months booming the city as the proper place for the next Democratic convention for some time were confident that they would raise the $100,000 guarantee fund necessary without any particular effort. But now, with $62,000 pledged they realize that they must do some tall hustling to secure the other $38,000.

The convention city will be decided upon by the executive committee of the Democratic national committee at its meeting in Washington Feb. 27 and Secretary Donnelly of the Milwaukee committee said today that unless the Milwaukeeans could go there with a certified check for $100,000 they might just as well stay away. It is expected that this week will decide whether the money can be raised.

NO OFFICIAL CONFIRMATION

Not Known in Washington That Chinese Emperor Is Dead

Washington, Jan. 29—[Special Telegram]—At the Chinese embassy it is stated this morning that no official confirmation has been received of the press account that the recently abdicated emperor of China is dead and that his body is lying in state.

TO CELEBRATE OVER BRITISH LOSSES

Eau Claire Citizens Will Wait Until They Reach 10,000—Radical Minneapolis Meeting.

Eau Claire, Jan. 29—Several prominent attorneys are arranging for a great pro-Boer celebration to be held in this city as soon as the English losses reach the 10,000 mark. That is, as soon as 10,000 English soldiers are killed, maimed or taken prisoners.

The pro-Boer enthusiasts will engage brass bands and have a grand jubilee over the English losses.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 29—Bitter denunciation of Great Britain was one feature of the pro-Boer mass meeting held here last evening. Another feature was the lashing given England by Rev. J. M. Cleary, a Roman Catholic priest of this city, who made an address so radical that even the most ardent Boer sympathizers present looked startled.

Prominent at the meeting were Governor John Lind and Mayor Gray of Minneapolis.

Gallantry.

From Collier's Weekly: A pretty story is told of Miss Ellen Terry. To assist a certain charity in the provinces, she offered a kiss to be put up at auction. The bidding was brisk, and had advanced in three leaps from two guineas to thirty, when, without further parley, the round sum of 100 pounds was offered. There being no higher bid, the kiss was knocked down by the auctioneer to a colonel in one of England's crack regiments, who came forward to meet the blushing actress. But to the surprise of all present, the colonel introduced a dear little fair-haired boy, explained that it was his grandson's fifth birthday, and that he had acquired the kiss as a birthday gift for him, whereupon Miss Terry took the child in her arms and discharged her debt without interest.

BELIEVE THE STATE LAW IS SUFFICIENT

KENOSHA LIQUOR BLACK LIST WILL BE RECINDED.

Ordinance Provides for Photographing Drunkards and Hanging the Pictures in Saloons Not Approved—Wisconsin—Measure Passed in 1885 Believed to be More Efficacious.

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 29—The eyes of the temperance world have been attracted to Kenosha during the last few days on account of the act of the Kenosha city council, which passed a resolution instructing the chief of police to secure pictures of men on the black list and hang copies of them in all the saloons of the city.

The action has created much comment and the officials of the Woman's Christain Temperance Union have denounced it.

The blacklist of Kenosha now contains the names of two men and one woman.

It Will be Rescinded

As soon as the resolution had been passed by the council it was declared unconstitutional by the attorneys and no effort has been made to enforce the provisions of the act. It is probable the resolution will be rescinded at an early meeting of the council.

But whatever may have been the success of the action of the Kenosha council it has brought to the notice of the world the fact that the state of Wisconsin has a blacklist law which is working good for the people of the commonwealth, a law which has gone along way toward eradicating the habitual drunkard from the state The law was passed by the state legislature in 1885.

Text of the Law.

The law is as follows:

When any person shall, by excessive drinking of intoxicating liquors, misspent, waste, or lessen his estate, so as to expose himself or family to want, or the town, city, village, or county to which he belongs to liabity for the support of himself or family, or so as thereby to injure his health, endanger the less thereof, or to endanger the personal safety and comfort of his family, or any member thereof, the wife of such person, the supervisor of such town, the aldermen of such city, or the trustees of such village, the county superintendent of poor of such county, or any of them, may in writing signed by her, him, or them forbid all persons licensed in accordance with the laws of this state, to sell or give away to such person any ardent, spirituous, or intoxicating liquor or drinks for the space of one year, and may in like manner forbid the selling, furnishing, or giving away any of such liquors and drinks to such persons by any licensed person in any other town, city, or village to which such a person may resort for the same.

Has Been Quite Successful

As soon as the law was published it was adopted by nearly all the councils of the smaller cities of the state, and it has been in constant use. Racine, Sheboygan, Beloit, Fond du Lac, La Crosse, Whitewater, and many of the other smaller cities in the state have enforced the law successfully.

In Racine the action of the law has been quite as successful. It has not been the intention of the people of Wisconsin to place a stain against a man or to hold him up for ridicule, but rather to reform the individual.

FOR ROBERTS' SUCCESSOR.

Special Election Has Been Ordered by the Governor of Utah.

Salt Lake, Utah, Jan. 29.—Gov. Wells has issued a proclamation calling a special election to be held on April 3 to fill the vacancy in Utah's congressional representation caused by the action of congress in refusing to seat Brigham H. Roberts.

Major R. W. Young, a grandson of Brigham Young, who is a graduate of West Point and gained distinction in the war in the Philippines, and who now holds the position of associate justice of the Supreme court in the Philippines, is the favorite candidate of the democrats. He is a monogamist, and although a Mormon, is very liberal in his views.

MAY ASK US TO MEDIATE.

Believed at Washington Boers and Britons Are Tired of War.

Washington, Jan. 29.—In view of the reports of the British defeats in South Africa, and the probability that Ladysmith will soon be compelled to surrender to the Boers, diplomats here would not be surprised to see Washington become the center of interest in the South African controversy. It is predicted that such a success for the Boers as the taking of Ladysmith will encourage the idea of intervention on the part of neutral powers, in the name of humanity, to end the war.

Kaiser's Canal Project Growing.

Berlin, Jan. 29.—The cost of the Midland canal project, which was rejected by the Prussian chamber of deputies, was 260,700,000 marks. But now that the building of the Berlin-Stettin ship canal is assured the Berlin authorities have resolved to construct a big Berlin harbor, making the city a seaport; and the kaiser's new canal bill is sail to call for 450,000,000 marks prorated over a period of fifteen years.

May Be Made a Cardinal.

New York, Jan. 29.—Archbishop Corrigan is going to Rome after Easter to make his visit ad limina to the pope. The news that Archbishop Corrigan is going to Rome has revived talk of the possibility of his being made a cardinal.

KILLS WIFE AND CHILDREN.

Charles Bartruff Then Also Tries to Commit Suicide.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 29.—Charles Bartruff, a farmer, murdered his wife 5-year-old son and infant daughter Sunday and then attempted suicide by burning himself in the midst of the corpses. The falling over of a stove was heard by a woman living above the Bartruff apartments. She called to a policeman, who, after knocking at the door and receiving no answer, burst in the door.

In the center of the room stood Bartruff, while near by lay the bodies of his wife and his little boy, Carl. The baby was found under the stove. Both children were dead, the mother unconscious. She died at 3 o'clock. Bartruff was bleeding from a wood in his head

He used a glass jar, which was broken, and a clothes iron and the leg of a chair in his murderous work. The heads of all the victims were horribly battered. The overturned stove was concealed by an ordinary chair and a rocking-chair, which were evidently placed on it to catch fire.

It is thought Bartruff is crazy. Shortly after Bartruff's marriage, six years ago, his father committed suicide. The prisoner says he was attacked with one of his "spells," because his wife slapped his face.

ICE SMOOTH AS GLASS

Over 30 Rinks Will Begin the Great Bonspiel at Milwaukee This Afternoon.

Milwaukee, Jan. 29—With yesterday's sharp weather putting the finishing touches on the Milwaukee rinks, the surfaces of which are now as smooth as a waxed dancing floor, everything is in readiness for the eight annual bonspiel of the Northwestern Curling association, which will begin at 2 o'cloak this afternoon under the auspices of the Chicago Curling clubs

Last night three rinks arrived from Waupaca, two from Baraboo, and one from Mauston, twenty-four visiting curlers thus being on the ground on the evening before the opening of the tournament

Curlers from the other competing clubs arrived here this morning. All participants were requested to meet in the club room of the Hotel Pfister at 10:30 o'clock this morning, where they registered.

ANTI-TRUST LAW IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Opinion on the Illinois Law Rendered by Judge Kohlsaat of U. S. Circuit Court.

Chicago, Jan. 29—[Special Telegram]—Judge Kohlsaat of the United States district court, this morning declared the Illinois anti-trust law unconstitutional.

Goebel Man Is Missing.

London, Ky., Jan. 29.—Relatives of J. W. Bryant of East Bernstedt, this county, are much worried about his whereabouts. Bryant went to Frankfort several days ago. He left Frankfort for his home Friday, but he has not reached there. Two men who were on the special train say Bryant was shot and killed and pitched from the train window by the crowd as they were returning because he yelled for Goebel.

Millions of Pounds of Butterine

Washington, Jan. 29.—In his report on artificial butter shipments, the commissioner of internal revenue declares that but for 100 clerks who volunteered, and worked a total of 500 hours overtime, it would have been impossible for him to get out his report at all. The table shows there were 17 manufactories, 163 wholesale and 6,875 retail dealers, and that 79,665,744 pounds were shipped from one state to another.

GAGE REPLIES TO SENATOR ALLEN

His Letter to the House Contains All That He Has to Say.

MAKES WARM ANSWER

Probable That Porto Rico Imports Will Have to Pay a Small Duty.

Chairman Hanna Angry Over the Way Philadelphia Has Acted Over That $100,000 Convention Promise—Bryan Starts Out for an Extensive Speech-making Pilgrimage Over the New England States—Late News From Washington.

Washington, Jan. 29—[Special Telegram]—Secretary Gage today submitted to the senate his reply to Senator Allen's resolution asking for information relative to his dealing with the National Banks. Mr. Gage says that his answer to the house contained all there is or ever was concerning the famous Hepburn letter. He also says rather warmly, that any conversation he may have had with officers of the National City Bank is set forth in his report to the senate of January 10th.

During the consideration of the committee on the report on the Sulzer resolution demanding an investigation of Secretary Gage's dealings with the National banks, Sulzer declared that Gage should be impeached for his action in the National City bank matter.

Duty For Porto Rico.

President McKinley's change of attitude in regard to free trade with Porto Rico, and a decision to place a small duty on the imports from that island, may have a far reaching effect on the future of Cuba. For months an impression has been growing that Cuba eventually will become part of the United States, but now the idea has taken root that if this government is not generous with Porto Rico, especially in the matter of the tariff, the Cubans will hesitate about casting their fortunes with this country.

Chairman Hanna is Angry

Senator Hanna, as chairman of the republican national committee, and Representative Dick are angry enough at the conduct of Philadelphia in connection with the national convention to re convene the committee and award the convention to Chicago or some other city.

Philadelphia has not only not raised a cent of the $100,000 which was supposed to be secured by a certified check, but a majority of the members of the local committee charged with the task of raising the money are resigning.

Bryan Leaves Washington

Colonel Bryan last night left for a tour of the New England States. Colonel Bryan devoted Sunday to consultation with democratic leaders of congress. He is much pleased with the situation in Washington.

MAY DISCUSS CURRENCY BILL

Also Some Philippine Speeches In Congress This Week

Washington, Jan. 29.—Senators Bacon and Tillman have given notice of speeches during the present week upon the Philippine question, but beyond these no indication has been given of the probable course of events in the senate during the week. The currency bill continues to hold the right of way and it is not improbable that it will be made the subject of more or less speechmaking. It is also quite certain that during the early part of the week there will be a change in the elective offices in the senate and that in accordance with the decision of the republican caucus of last week Mr. Bennett will be installed as secretary and Mr. Ransdell as sergeant-at-arms. Senator Jones of Arkansas will continue in executive session his effort to secure reconsideration of the Samoan treaty, but this motion will be resisted by the republicans. There is a tacit understanding that the Quay contest will not be taken up until after the disposition of the currency bill.

No program is marked out for the house this week. The Indian appropriation bill has been reported and the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill is in preparation. It is expected that these bills will occupy the major portion of the week.

Where Locusts Are Eaten.

In certain portions of the globe some species of this insect are eaten, and are considered a delicacy. The Arabs in the kingdom of Morocco boil them. The Bedouins roast them a little, then dry them in the sun, and pack them in large sacks with salt. Other inhabitants of the eastern countries, when bread is scarce, pulverize them and make bread of them. This is the food referred to in the scriptures as having been eaten by John the Baptist.

WAS COLDEST DAY OF THE WINTER

THERMOMETER WENT 10 DEGREES BELOW YESTERDAY.

But it Began to Get Warmer Today and Promises to Grow in That Direction Tomorrow—Blizzard is Raging at Pembina and the Canadian Northwest.

Janesville is to escape for the present the extreme cold which threatened to come upon it from the northwest. Instead of having the thermometer at 10 degrees below zero people in this locality can count on the mercury rising to 15 to 18 degrees above today and tomorrow.

Tuesday will be fair, with a rising temperature. The cold wave is already broken west of the upper Mississippi, and it is not likely that the temperature will go below zero tonight. The short duration of the cold wave in this section is due to the rapid movement southward of the area of high pressure which appeared in the British northwest and to the development of a low pressure area there.

The cold wave was severe enough, however, while it lasted, and winter made its best record of the year in low temperature yesterday morning, when 10 degrees below zero were registered. The coldest previous day this winter was December 30 when the mercury fell to 5 degrees below.

The far west was not as fortunate in the treatment it received from the cold wave. The high pressure area, instead of crossing the continent in an easterly direction, followed a line only a little east of south and from Medicine Hat, where it was located Saturday night, went to western Nebraska yesterday morning and to Northern Texas in the evening. That gave the Texans something to think about. Austin reported last evening a drop of 30 degrees since noon with a very severe blizzard blowing. Kansas and the winter wheat states had no snow while all the North Atlantic coast states and cities as far inland as Pittsburg, Parkersburg, W. Va., and Vicksburg, reported falls of either snow or rain.

A telegram from Pembina, Minn., announces a blizzard so severe that all outdoor travel was made impossible.

GOOD PAPER BY DR. WHITING

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin Pays the Janesville Surgeon a Compliment

The Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin speaks of the paper written by Major Joseph B. Whiting, Jr., of this city, for the meeting of the National Guard association as follows:

"One of the strongest papers the Wisconsin National Guard association has listened to was prepared by Maj. J W. Whiting, Jr., of Janesville. Major Whiting was not able to attend the convention at the Hotel Pfister, but his paper was read by Adjt. Gen. Boardman. Maj. Whiting's subject was "Military Hygiene" and in discussing the topic he said one of the greatest scandals the army of this country had experienced, was the great amount of sickness that developed in the Seventh Army corps during the war with Spain. He said this was the result of the fact that the men were huddled together in violation of all military laws and laws of sanitation and he said the sinks in the camp were a disgrace to every man who did not loudly protest against them. The indifference of the volunteer soldiers to the laws, he said, also was responsible to some extent for the prevalence of disease. Camp sanitation he said, was a subject, which was worthy the deepest consideration of every officer of the association. He argued for a more thoughtful manner of handling a private soldier than now exists with some commanders For instance, he pointed out that a soldier who spent a night in debauchery was sick the next day and that he was no more fit work that a person suffering from regular disease. The soldier should be punished, but in some human way.

In discussing the paper Col. A. H. Hollister of Madison, said that he wanted to sound a warning to the effect that one of the finest camps in this country, that at Camp Douglas, was in danger of becoming a hotbed of disease, and that it was necessary in order to prevent this to remove the sinks from the camp.

SISTER'S CURE FOR SMALL POX

M. Smith Finds a Newspaper Clipping Telling an Interesting Story.

In running through some old papers, M. Smith, 115 Pearl street, found a clipping from the Philadelphia Times giving a cure for small pox. The remedy was discovered by Sister Gonzaga, of St. Joseph's Orphan asylum. The principal ingredients of the remedy are digitalis and sulphate of zinc. Each is dissolved separately, and then mixed together and sugar in solution added. The mixture is translucent, slightly fragrant and of a greenish hue. It is pleasant to the taste In using, a teaspoonful is taken every hour for twelve consecutive hours.

The clipping states that the remedy has worked wonders and was in great demand, but the article does not give the formula.

SERMON SERIES ON HOLY LAND

Rev. Mr. Kempton Will Take a Trip East, to Be Gone a Week or Ten Days.

Rev. Kempton left today for Manhattan, Kansas, where tomorrow evening he delivers a lecture before the University of Kansas students. Next Sunday he will preach at Patterson, New Jersey. He expects to be gone a week or ten days.

At the Baptist church last evening the Rev. Kempton gave another sermon in his series upon "The Holy Land." The subject was, "Nazareth, as It Is Today." He said in part:

Last Sunday we visited Bethlehem and its surroundings; we will now go to Nazareth, where Jesus spent about thirty years of his earthly life. After their sojourn in Egypt, that they might escape the wrath of Herod, Joseph and Mary, with their son Jesus, went to their home in Nazareth. This was in fulfillment of the prophesy, "He shall be called a Nazarine." Jesus was known as the man of Nazareth. The blind man said, "Jesus of Nazareth"; the devils called him that also. In Gethsemanee, on the cross, after his ressurrection, and when he appeared to Paul at Damascus, he was spoken of as coming from Nazareth. Indeed, apart from Jesus, Nazareth has no place in history.

Nazareth is situated in a pear shaped valley near the top of the mountain shut out from the rest of the world. The Roman road runs near it. There is no beauty in Nazareth. Every house is like the others from a distance they look like a lot of big boxes. There are now about 7,500 people there. It is the most christian city in Palestine. A great variety of worshippers gather there.

The Catholics claim that the house of Joseph was carried by angels to Loretto, Italy, so we did not see that.

The most interesting place about Nazareth is the hill above it. A guard view is given here and we are reasonably certain that the feet of our Lord trod that soil. At the foot of that hill is a school for orphan children, erected by English money where we heard the children sing, "Jesus of Nazareth passeth by."

MURPHY LEAGUE MEETING

Two Attorneys Spoke and Large Audience Was in Attendance

At the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock members of the Francis Murphy Temperance League held an interesting session that was attended by an audience that taxed the seating capacity of the room. President Fred Holden presided. Attorney M. O. Mouat of this city, was the first speaker. His address was brief and to the point on the liquor evil as it rages today in our city The speaker handled his subject well fully convincing his hearers that to leave liquor entirely alone is by far the best road to success.

Attorney J. W. Bates of Beloit, was the next speaker on the program. Mr. Bates dealt with the liquor question in a masterly way showing that he was well informed on the ruin that is in store for the young man who indulges in strong drink. The Y M C. A. furnished excellent music. The afternoon proved a most profitable one.

FREAKS FOR PARIS EXPOSITION

Wild Schemes With Which the Directors Have Been Flooded.

BY ANDREW DOWNS.

When Commissioner General Piquart of the Paris exposition asked for suggestions for fair novelties, he had not the least idea of the size of the freak crop he was to reap. If he had known, it is probable he would never have set the ball rolling. Months ago the exposition commissioners had settled upon all the unique features which could possibly be accommodated. This fact has been widely announced. But the industrious freak inventor takes no heed. He goes right on inventing and submitting designs.

Of course it is now too late to adopt any new designs, even if the exposition managers wished to do so, but many of the inventors are not satisfied with this statement. Some of them have secured space outside the exposition grounds and have managed to raise the capital necessary to put their weird ideas into tangible shape.

From all over the world these queer suggestions have poured in. Of course the larger number came from Frenchmen, but the Yankee inventor is a good second. One enthusiastic Gaul proposed a reproduction of the garden of Eden, with what is startlingly called a "Theater of Varieties" in the midst thereof. It is somewhat reassuring to learn that La Fougere and the rest would not have a chance of performing at this Edenic theater of varieties and that it would be reserved for the portrayal of early scenes in the history of the world, such as the fall, the flood and the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Bullfights in southern France and the wild beast fight at Roubaix have prompted the suggestion that a new Coliseum, exactly like that of old Rome in all its glory, should be built and should be the scene of similar bloody shows and spectacles.

Another Frenchman suggested the erection of the wall of the New Jerusalem as described in the book of Revelation, but this daring project was laid aside reverently, for it would take up too much time, too much labor and too many rare and precious gems and jewels.

MAMMOTH CIGAR PROPOSED FOR PARIS EXPOSITION.

It must be said for the Yankee suggestions that most of them were far more practical than those received from Frenchmen. A very remarkable construction which was submitted to the management about six weeks ago was that of a cigar which was to be built of steel and covered with a wooden casing.

Outside it was to have a coating of brown stucco so applied as to look like a pure Havana wrapper. The cigar when completed would stand 700 feet high and would taper at each end. From the top an American flag would wave.

The famous Alexandre bridge, the cornerstone of which was laid by the czar two years ago, roused jealousy in the mind of a Massachusetts inventor, a man who has secured many patents. His plan showed a bridge in the shape of a silk hat. The one brim of the tile rested upon one side of the river; the other brim rested upon the opposite shore. This gave a beautiful arch, which was the delight of the constructor.

A strawberry shortcake was the invention of a California man who saw in his mind's eye this trophy resting upon the Seine, its lower layer built like a float and so constructed as to sustain the upper part.

Giant strawberries fresh from Pasadena would be sold in the waiting rooms and the cafes, the parlors and the libraries. "If this building," wrote he, "could be submitted to the people of California, they would undoubtedly donate enough money to construct it, as the California building of the Paris exposition."

A Kentucky genius is responsible for a whisky bottle bigger than any building in New York city. This building is to be devoted to an exhibition of the manufacture of liquors of all kinds. A staircase would lead upward into the top of the cork, and from the top of the cork would wave a triumphant American flag.

New York state is made responsible for a book building in which, the inventor suggested, all the processes of book manufacture could be nicely shown. "In the top windows," said he, in the elaborate letter which he sent to the directors, "our men of letters could compose their epics."

AN ALERT ADMIRAL.

He Commands the British Naval Force In South African Waters.

The British naval officer who is responsible for the close watch of Delagoa bay and who has been so zealous in guarding that spot that two big nations have made formal complaint is Rear Admiral Sir Robert Harris, commander of the British naval station at the Cape of Good Hope.

It has been by the orders of Rear Admiral Harris that the American and German steamers have been seized on the suspicion that their cargoes included contraband of war for the Boers. He has also directed the appropriation of the shiploads of flour which were taken simply because the British army needed the flour.

If there is a clash between the warships of England and Germany in

REAR ADMIRAL HARRIS.

South African waters, it will be Rear Admiral Harris who will do the fighting. Should the Boers induce any adventurous captain to turn privateer and prey on the British commerce in those waters, which is somewhat unlikely, he will be the man who will discourage the attempt.

Rear Admiral Harris is known in the British naval service as a highly accomplished and many sided man. Author of several important professional books, he has enjoyed unusual opportunities as commander of the training squadron and as rear admiral in the Mediterranean fleet at the time of the Cretan trouble. With over 40 years' service Sir Robert Harris is regarded by the English as an officer fully qualified to deal with any emergency likely to arise out of the present war.

NEW WASHINGTON STATUE.

To Be Erected In Paris by American Women.

Within a few months there will be placed in the Place d'Jena, Paris, a beautiful statue of Washington. It will be the gift of American women. The statue is the work of Daniel C. French and E. C. Potter and was ordered by the Association of American Women For the Presentation of a Statue of Washington to France.

The work of the sculptors has been completed, and the casting is now being done by the Henry-Bonnard company. When completed, the statue will be 15 feet high from the top of the base to the top of the head, but the arm and the uplifted sword extend six feet higher, making the work from the lower line of the base to the sword top about 22 feet.

It shows Washington in full dress uniform, mounted on a fine charger.

HEAD OF NEW WASHINGTON STATUE FOR PARIS.

He holds his sword high over his head in his right hand, dedicating it to the service of his country, while the left hand grasps the bridle of the horse, which is impatient and anxious to move, but stands obedient to the master rider. The face was modeled after the bust by Houdon and other recognized portraits of General Washington.

The Ashmen's Tips.

New York householders are groaning under the tips exacted by the city ashmen and without which they perform their duties in a way to make life a burden and yet in a way which saves them from being punished by the authorities. Of course it is the householders' fault for ever having commenced the tipping system; but, although the practice has sprung up since the death of Colonel Waring, who, when he was in charge of the street cleaning department, never permitted tips, it is now firmly established and has become a burning question. The ashmen have a regular schedule, $1 a month for private houses, $2 for apartment houses and so on up the scale.

The Sex of Ships.

The word "ship" is masculine in French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese and possesses no sex in Teutonic and Scandinavian. Perhaps it would not be an error to trace the custom of feminizing ships back to the Greeks, who called them by feminine names, probably out of deference to Athene, goddess of the sea. But the English-speaking sailor assigns no such reasons. The ship to him is always a lady, even though she be a man-o'-war. She possesses a waist, collars, stays, laces, bonnets, ties, ribbons, chains, watches and dozens of other distinctly feminine attributes.—Collier's Weekly.

When doctors fail try Burdock Blood Bitters. Cures dyspepsia constipation; invigorates the whole system.

To Stop Congestion of Streets.

London's crowded streets have been relieved by a new police order directing cabmen to drive into the nearest side street as soon as they have discharged their passengers. No empty cabs are allowed on the main thoroughfares. The rule keeps the streets cleaner, but the cabmen object that they miss many customers, and the Londoners that they can no longer find cabs where they want them most.

Traveling often takes the conceit out of a man, but coming home puts twice as much of it in him again.—Chicago Daily News.

Household Brevities.

A silver polish can be made by mixing a few drops of ammonia with whiting and adding enough water to the whole to make it the consistency of cream. It can be bottled and if corked tightly will keep as long as desired. It cleans silver without hard rubbing.

When cut flowers become wilted, they may frequently be freshened by clipping off the ends and dipping the stems in hot water for a few moments.

Rubber heels for all shoes are highly spoken of by many women who first learned the advantage of them from wearing golf shoes. The heel is about half an inch in thickness, and its advocates say that its use lessens the jar of walking, especially upon city pavements.

If a little sweet oil be rubbed on knives which are to be laid away, they will not rust if rolled in tissue paper and kept in a dry place. Sometimes, too, if the rust be not too "fixed," it can be removed by careful rubbing with sweet oil, though coal oil is even better.

Sacrificed to Blood Poison.

Those who have never had Blood Poison can not know what a desperate condition it can produce. This terrible disease which the doctors are totally unable to cure, is communicated from one generation to another, inflicting its taint upon countless innocent ones.

Some years ago I was inoculated with poison by a nurse who infected my babe with blood taint. The little one was unequal to the struggle, and its life was yielded up to the fearful poison. For six long years I suffered untold misery. I was covered with sores and ulcers from head to foot, and no language can express my feelings of woe during those long years. I had the best medical treatment. Several physicians successively treated me, but all to no purpose. The mercury and potash seemed to add fuel to the awful flame which was devouring me. I was advised by friends who had seen wonderful cures made by it, to try Swift's Specific. We got two bottles, and I felt hope again revive in my breast—hope for health and happiness again. I improved from the start, and a complete and perfect cure was the result. S. S. S. is the only blood remedy which reaches desperate cases.

MRS. T. W. LEE, Montgomery, Ala.

Of the many blood remedies, S. S. S. is the only one which can reach deep-seated, violent cases. It never fails to cure perfectly and permanently the most desperate cases which are beyond the reach of other remedies.

WANTED—CHEAPER PAPER

Milwaukee Sentinel—The rise in the price of print paper which is proving a source of great expense to all publishers has moved the editor of The New Orleans Times-Democrat to suggest that a stimulus be offered to inventors to bestir themselves toward finding a new process of manufacturing cheap paper. He believes that the time has come when a substitute for wood pulp, some material more abundant, and from which paper can be made at less cost, ought to be found, and that with the proper stimulus this material will be found. To hasten the discovery of a remedy for the present high priced paper, which is likely to grow higher instead of cheaper on account of the growing scarcity of spruce timber, The Times-Democrat proposes to have a fund raised to be given as a bonus to the successful inventor of cheaper paper. It offers to contribute $500 toward this fund, saying:

> Let the press then act in this matter, each journal offering to contribute toward a prize or premium to him who finds a cheaper and a better material for the manufacture of paper than spruce wood pulp. Fully realizing how much this means for the newspaper world, how greatly it will benefit it at once, and how it will assure its future, The Times-Democrat will join in any movement of this kind; and to inaugurate such a movement pledges itself to give $500 as its share of a fund to be raised by the publishers of this country for the inventor who finds a cheaper and more abundant material than spruce wood pulp from which white paper such as the newspapers use can be manufactured. If other journals will but join us in making the prize large enough to bring to the consideration of this problem the most brilliant men in the country we feel confident that it will be solved, and that the world will be assured all the paper it needs—and this means books, newspapers and magazines in abundance and at reasonable rates.

This method of hastening the advent of a new and cheaper process of making paper has the merit of originality, if nothing more. Supposing the suggestion were endorsed by the press of the country and they all contributed according to their means, a very considerable sum would be forthcoming as a reward to the inventive genius who was able to solve the problem of providing cheaper paper.

In appointing Walter A. Johnson as agent at Janesville, The Chicago, Milwaukee & St Paul railway company made a wise move. Mr. Johnson is an exceptionally capable young man and will fill the place to the satisfaction of all concerned. J. S. Bowdoin, who retires from the Janesville office to accept a promotion will be missed by many Janesville people. Mr. Bowdoin has a future in railway work, and his advancement was no surprise, as the fact he is especially fitted for his business is generally known and appreciated.

Police! Go over on North Main street and ascertain if the old lady is having a fit. She is so quiet lately.—Recorder.

So The Recorder, too, has become tired of doing the running, and when it wants a policeman to look after its lawless female friends, it publishes a notice in the paper! This is a good scheme, and will save The Recorder much annoyance and many long and fruitless tramps.

We were under the impression that the defendant is by the law, presumed to be innocent until his guilt is proved. But when the pen is dipped in venom the writer lose sight of everything except his brutal object—and sometimes lays himself open to legal redress, too.

Washington need not claim anything unusual because she has a Gridiron club. So has every other city in the United States, and, as a rule, the members work overtime.

SPONGING MADE EASY.

How the Amateur Dressmaker Can Handle Cloth, Fine Flannel, Etc.

One of the worst stumbling blocks in the path of the amateur dressmaker or, indeed, that of the professional often is the difficulty of properly shrinking certain materials before they are suitable to be fashioned into wearing apparel. In regard to this bugbear a Good Housekeeping correspondent gives some sensible suggestions, from which the following is learned:

This operation of shrinking, or sponging, as it is termed by tailors, is essential whenever broadcloths, ladies' cloths or fine flannels are employed in order to prevent future spotting, cockling or shrinking from rain or dampness. In the finer grade of cloths kept in stock by leading houses in large cities these goods are often sold warranted as steam sponged. Unless so guaranteed, however, the extra work should not be passed by. To many women the home management seems too risky to be undertaken, for the reason that much of the rich appearance of fine, handsome cloth could be easily injured by careless handling.

Supposing, however, that the amateur does not care to pay the tailor $2 or $3 or, what is far more probable, suppose that she is out of the reach of a "knight of the shears." Some friend will tell her that a damp cloth must be laid upon the goods and that then it should be pressed upon the wrong side. She views the billowy heap of six or eight yards (which she has unrolled to estimate the task) with dismay, for how can she ever dampen and press evenly all of that huge pile of cloth—for huge it looks to her anxious eyes? Surely one part will dry long before the rest and the marks where the iron stopped will be unmistakable. She is satisfied that to undertake the work in so blundering and awkward a way would be worse than letting the fabric go unsponged.

Then the next time she asks for advice it is from some one who knows, for the first instructor was merely a theorist and had never put into practice that which she preached. This time our amateur goes to work with a better heart and first carefully dampens a large sheet and neatly folds the cloth therein, wrapping the bundle smoothly with a blanket to keep the dampness even. This answers better perhaps, but why not put brains to work and try to improve upon even this makeshift way?

Have you never thought, when you have seen Bridget taking the half dried wash from the clothesline on "blue Monday," that perhaps you might borrow a suggestion from her work? Then, again, are not clothes left out upon the line overnight thoroughly and evenly dampened by morning? What, pray, is there to prevent taking your full length of new cloth out to this same clothesline some night after darkness sets, when the air is damp, but no rain threatens, and allowing it to remain hanging therefrom, securely fastened with clothespins, until the following morning?

The following morning the sun will at an early hour place the cloth in exactly the proper state for easy pressing, for the material may be brought into the house when at any desired state of dampness or dryness. Then, by keeping the unpressed portion smoothly folded, so that it will remain as damp as is required, the cloth may be ironed quickly and easily and without flurry or nervous strain. Try it and avoid the tailor's bill.

How to Clean Oilcloth.

The best way of keeping this in order is to have it regularly rubbed up with beeswax and turpentine or with any good furniture polish at stated intervals, according to the amount of wear it receives. It should be daily dusted and if necessary wiped over with a damp cloth and then well dried, but never scrubbed or soused with water. Both these processes are absolutely destructive. An occasional rub over with skim or sour milk adds immensely to its polish and hence to the saving of scratches.

A Hint to Book Buyers.

It is a very good time to rake over the library and buy books, if one ever can. They are cheaper now, and the holiday influx has left a large choice. People who sell them, too, have more time to show and discuss them. Is this a new idea? It is an accepted custom in some families, for there is no use in thinking that there is any time of the year when there is nothing to be bought! And books are selected more judiciously if they have their special season.

Shoes of Great Men.

From the Boston Herald: Henry C. Franklin, seventy years old, who keeps a small cobbling shop on Washington street, Haverhill, Mass., has the proud distinction of having made shoes for England's most noted men—men with whom the whole reading world is familiar were Mr. Franklin's customers. Mr. Franklin's shop was within a stone's throw to High Holborn, London, and there such famous men as Charles Dickens, Lord Clarendon, Disraeli, Sir de Lacy Evans, Du Maurier and Gladstone could often be seen giving instructions for the making of their footwear.

Dr. Tanner's Ideas on Diet.

Dr. Tanner, who some years ago was the hero of a fasting feat prolonged for forty days and nights, is still alive and well in New York at the age of 77 years. The prediction was made by some medical men that his digestive organs would be irretrievably injured by his lengthy abstention from food and Dr. Tanner prides himself considerably on the fact that despite these gloomy forebodings his health continues good. He is a strict vegetarian, and thinks that a man can live comfortably on the modest sum of 12½ cents a day. Much of the ill health from which many people suffer he puts down to the consumption of pork and badly cooked food. He as wholly disagrees with the manner in which hotel and restaurant managers cater for their patrons, and is of the opinion that the true idea of cooking is to retain the natural flavor of the viands, and not, as seems to be the aim of the modern cuisine, to disguise it.

An Interesting Collection.

An interesting collection of gold ornaments from the Ashanti country may now be seen in the windows of a jeweler's shop in the West End of London, England. These and many others formed part of the loot of ex-King Prempeh's palace at Coomassie when that bloodthirsty monarch was publicly dethroned a few years ago. They consist of curiously wrought amulets, which were worn as fetish charms, and several slug-shaped ornaments which are identical with some that have been dug up in Ireland, save that the Irish productions are solid, whereas the African are hollow.

DEVOL BROTHERS ARRESTED TODAY

ARRIVE IN JANESVILLE ON WAY TO GREEN COUNTY.

Alleged That They Drove From Edgerton to Brooklyn Where They Stole Seed by the Wagon Load—State Prison Offence if Conviction Follows.

The last straw broke the camel's back—the last few bags of clover seed were responsible for the arrest of Claude and William Devol, brothers, at Edgerton today.

The men are charged with stealing clover seed from a warehouse at Brooklyn, Green county. They were both working at Edgerton, in tobacco, and it is charged that they drove to Brooklyn in the night, took six bags of seed and shipped them to Chicago without being found out. The second trip, it is said, they overloaded the wagon, taking fourteen bags, and were forced to leave some of them at a farm house. The farmer noticed the name on the bags and notified the authorities.

As a result the brothers were arrested. The sheriff of Green county took them to Monroe today, and they will have a hearing later.

The value of the goods is sufficient to send the men to Waupun if they are convicted

New Ruling Regarding Prescriptions and Sale of Liquor in Janesville

The following new ruling as to the application of the internal revenue law to doctors and clubs, is of interest right here in Janesville:

"A physician who prescribes and sells to his patients, whisky, brandy, wine or any other alcoholic liquor that is not compounded into a medicine by the mixture of any drug or medicinal ingredient therewith, is required to pay special tax as a retail liquor dealer, even though the alcoholic liquor thus furnished be prescribed as a medicine only and so used. Every social club that receives orders from its members for alcoholic liquor in any quantity less than five gallons, and furnishes the liquor so ordered, and collects pay therefor, or accepts the consumer's promise to pay in the future,' sells the liquor to its members and is a retail liquor dealer under the internal revenue laws, and is required to pay special tax accordingly."

COLLEGE TEAMS PLAY HERE DECORATION DAY

WISCONSIN VERSUS BELOIT AT ATHLETIC PARK.

Milwaukee May Succeed in Getting the Game Away From the Bower City—Games Not Well Patronized Here—Manager John Fisher Has the Arrangements in Charge.

Manager Fisher announces that the Wisconsin university baseball team will meet Beloit college at Beloit on May 5, at Janesville or Milwaukee on Decoration day, May 30, and at Madison on June 6, the day of the annual picnic of the Modern Woodmen lodges of Wisconsin and Illinois will be held here.

Whether or not the Wisconsin-Beloit contest takes place in Janesville or Milwaukee will remain entirely with the managers of the two teams Manager Fisher is of the opinion that a good sized crowd would turn out in Janesville and vicinity. He says that Beloit would send a large delegation and that Janesville would do likewise. It is estimated that twice as many would attend the game here from Beloit than would go if the contest took place in Milwaukee In case it is definitely decided to play the game here the event will undoubtedly takes place in athletic park.

Only Just and Equitable

Editor Gazette—I noticed in your paper of Jan. 22, that you have placed opposite my name $13.70 as the 2 per cent tax My entire report was not in at that time; and I now would say that the 2 per cent for fire department purposes on business written, in this city amounts to $39.80. This is pretty good evidence that our principal is growing. What has helped to swell this amount to these large proportions, is the fact at the board meeting Saturday evening of the Citizens' Mutual Fire Insurance company, by a unanimous vote they decided to pay the 2 per cent tax for fire purposes in all cities and villages where they have fire departments, notwithstanding that the insurance commissioner has written me twice, that we do not have to pay it. We have looked the matter over carefully, and have come to the conclusion that it is only just and equitable that we as a mutual company should do the same in this respect as other companies do.

HYER DAMAGE SUIT IS BUT A MEMORY

THE SUPREME COURT ORDERS ITS DISMISSAL.

Action Taken on the Grounds That Costs of Reversal Had Not Been Paid—Case Had Been in the Courts During the Past Four Years—Mrs. Hyer was Injured Dec. 16, 1898.

The damage suit of Mrs. Victoria Hyer against the city of Janesville, is now but a memory, it having been dismissed on the application of City Attorney Burpee for failure to pay costs on reversal, in the supreme court.

The case has been in litigation for four years. Mrs. Hyer was injured on December 14, 1895, on South Franklin street She brought suit against the city, and the case was tried in the circuit court of Rock county in November 1896, the jury disagreeing. A change of venue to Dane county was then taken, and the case was tried at Madison in February, 1897. The plaintiff secured a verdict for $2,500, which was afterward set aside by the court. In January, 1898, the case was again tried in the Dane county circuit court, the jury awarding the plaintiff $1,500 damages. The city then appealed to the supreme court, and on December 16, 1898, the case was reversed, with costs, and sent back for a new trial.

Later, the city's application for dismissal was filed, and the dismissal ordered, as above stated, and the case, after four years of legal conflict, went down

BULLER IN FULL RETREAT.

Great Britain Plunged in Gloom by the News.

LEFT 1,500 DEAD ON FIELD.

Most Disastrous Defeat Suffered by British Arms Within Memory of Living Men—Fear All Has Not Been Told.

London, Jan. 29.—Not within living memory has England been plunged in such gloom as now hangs over her like a pall, the result of the posting by the war office late last night of a dispatch from Gen. Buller that not only had his magnificent army suffered a reverse at Spion kop, but that it was at the time of sending the dispatch in full retreat, and had crossed to the south bank of the Tugela river. The official dispatch, or at least the version of it made public by the war office, follows:

Gen. Buller's Dispatch.

"Spearman's Camp. Jan. 27. 10 p. m. —On Jan. 20, as reported, Gen. Warren drove back the enemy and obtained possession of the southern crests of the high tableland extending from a line at Action Homes and Houger's Poort to the Western Ladysmith hills. From then until Jan. 25 he remained in close contact with the enemy, who held a strong position on a range of small kopjes stretching from northeast to southwest across the plateau from Action Homes to Spion kop to the left bank of the Tugela.

"The actual position held was perfectly tenable, but did not lend itself to an advance, as the southern slopes were so steep that Gen. Warren could not get effective artillery in position, and to supply his troops with water was difficult.

Couldn't Hold the Kop.

"On Jan. 23 I consented to his attacking Spion kop, which is a large hill—indeed, a mountain—which was evidently the key to the position, but which was far more accessible from the north than from the south. On the night of Jan. 23 he seized Spion kop, but it was difficult to hold, as its perimeter was too large, and water, which he had been led to believe existed, in this extraordinarily dry season was found very difficult to obtain.

"The crests were held that day against very severe attacks and heavy shell fire. Our troops fought with great gallantry.

"I would specially mention the conduct of the Second Cameronians and the Third King's Royal rifles, who supported attacks on the mountain from its steepest side, in each case fighting their way to the top; also the Second Lancashires and Second Middlesex, who magnificently maintained the best traditions of the British army throughout the trying day; also on Jan. 24, Thorneycroft's mounted infantry, who fought throughout equally well alongside.

"Gen. Woodgate, who was in command at the summit, being wounded, the officer who succeeded him decided on the night of Jan. 24 to abandon the position, and did so before daylight Jan. 25.

Decides to Retreat.

"I reached Warren's camp at 5 a. m., Jan. 25, and decided that a second attack on Spion kop would be useless, and that the enemy's right was too strong to allow me to force it. I accordingly decided to withdraw the force to the south of the Tugela.

"At 6 a. m. I commenced withdrawing the train. By 8 a. m., Jan. 27, Warren's force was concentrated south of the Tugela, without the loss of a man or a pound of stores.

"The fact that the force could withdraw from actual touch (in cases the lines were less than 1,000 yards apart) with the enemy in the perfect manner it did is, I think, sufficient evidence of the morale of the troops.

"That we were permitted to withdraw our cumbrous ox and mule transport across a river eighty-five yards broad with twenty-foot banks, a very swift stream, unmolested, was, I think, proof that the enemy has been taught to respect our soldiers' fighting powers."

England Is Stunned.

To say that England is stunned by the news is to put it mildly. To make matters worse, there lurks a suspicion in the popular mind that the whole truth has not been told by Gen. Buller in the dispatch, or that the version made public has been garbled by the war office for public consumption. One thing is plain, however, and that is that the movement against the Boer right that was inaugurated by a general order to the troops that Ladysmith, with their beleaguered comrades, was in front, and that there was to be no turning back, has collapsed in a thoroughly undignified retreat is now a matter of history.

That there was no pursuit by the Boers was in consonance with their tactics in similar cases throughout the campaign. Neither at Magersfontein nor Colenso did they issue from their trenches in pursuit of the broken and demoralized enemy, and no doubt the sight of Gen. Warren's division recrossing the Tugela satisfied the exigencies of the situation so far as the Boers were concerned.

Incredible Lack of Skill.

W... fuller information it is difficult to criticise in detail the operations described. One thing, however, is clear, and that is that the British generals and staff have shown an incredible lack of knowledge of the country over which they were to operate, and an inexcusable want of enterprise in acquiring it after the operations began. Whether the British soldiers have fought as well as the official reports state, or as indifferently as their detractors assert, is not now of so much consequence as the undeniable fact that the leading and staff work have been inefficient to the last degree. The reorganization of the British army from top to bottom cannot but be the result of what is now happening in South Africa.

1,500 Dead on Field.

It is remarkable that Gen. Buller says nothing about his losses during the engagement. The following from Boer sources would indicate that the slaughter of the British was terrible:

"Lourenco Marques, Portuguese South Africa, Jan. 26.—A dispatch from the Boer laager at Modder Spruit, dated Jan. 25, 6 p. m., says that the British dead left on the field on Jan. 24 numbered 1,500. Gen. Buller, who was reported to be down with fever, has recovered.

"A dispatch from Pretoria dated Jan. 25 announces the capture of 150 prisoners. It concludes, 'God be thanked, though we also had to give brave and valuable lives.'"

BOER STORY OF SPION KOP FIGHT

British Troops Exhibited Great Bravery, but Were Overwhelmed.

Boer Camp, Modder Spruit, Upper Tugela, River, Wednesday, Jan. 24.—At 4 o'clock this morning some Vryheid burghers forming the outposts on the highest hills of the Spion kop group rushed into the laager, announcing that the British had taken Spion kop. Reenforcements were summoned, but nothing could be done for some time, as the hill was enveloped in mist. At dawn there was a significant sign, the Kaffirs fleeing to their kraals from the hills.

Telegraphic communication with the head laager was also cut. At daylight the Heidelberg and Carolina contingents, who were supplemented, commenced the ascent. There are three spurs, rather precipitous projections, facing the Boer position. Up these the burghers, leaving their horses at the first bank of rocks, ascended. At the summit they found the British heavily intrenched. Between the British trenches and the Boer commandos there was a stretch of open veldt, which had to be rushed under a heavy rifle, lyddite and shrapnel fire.

Meanwhile two parties of burghers ascended the other two spurs, covered by the Free State Krupp, Creusot and Maxim guns.

The British tried to rush them, but their infantry fell as grass before a scythe. The firing continued with undiminished fury, the Boers advancing step by step, until 2 o'clock. Then a white flag was displayed and 150 British in the first trenches surrendered. They were sent to the head laager.

The British prisoners speak highly of the bravery of the burghers, who, despising cover, stood on the sky line to be shot at by the Dublin fusileers, who were sheltered in trenches. The Boers rushed the trenches, shouting: "Hands up; weapons down." The resistance, however, continued for some time longer. Then the Dublin and the Light Horse had enough, and, throwing up their arms, rushed out the the trenches.

WERE LED INTO TRAP.

Buller Was Purposely Allowed to Cross the Tugela River.

London, Jan. 29.—Dispatches from Durban show what has been thought likely that the Boers well knew of Gen. Buller's crossing the Tugela and did not interfere with him in order to get him entangled as they did. The fact that Spion kop's first ridge was abandoned by the Boers after one volley makes it most likely that the abandonment was a mere ruse to lure the British to the next position, which was covered by the Boer guns. The commentators doubt whether Gen. Buller implies that his whole force recrossed the Tugela. They wonder if Lord Dundonald's cavalry is in danger, but probability points to the retirement of the whole British force.

CONTINENT HAD NEWS FIRST.

Undisguised Joy in Many Capitols Over Buller's Retreat.

London, Jan. 29.—Dispatches from Paris, Vienna and Berlin describe the undisguised joy of the people over the British defeat, which is displayed as though their own armies had been winning great victories.

Again Paris knew of the abandonment of Spion kop before London. Dr. Leyds, the diplomatic agent of the Transvaal, knew it Thursday night, when the war office here announced that it had no information. The Paris papers say that the war office was afraid to make the announcement, while others declare that the officials at the war office kept back the news in order that they and their friends might take advantage at the stock exchange of the news of the capture of Spion kop before the adverse news was published.

MRS. BECK FOUND AT LAST.

Aged Woman Missing for Three Months Returns.

DISCOVERED IN DARK CLOSET.

After Successive Visits with Relatives in Various Locations She Is Traced to Kenosha, and Finally Found with Friends in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Mrs. Anna Beck who disappeared from her home here three months ago with the proceeds of her late husband's estate, some $2,600 was found by the police in hiding at the home of a friend, having turned up unexpectedly on Saturday night from Kenosha, Wis.

Though Mrs. Beck disappeared Oct 8, the police were not notified until three weeks ago. Some feared she had been murdered for her money, while others were of the opinion she had fled because she dreaded the legal consequences of an accounting alleged to have been demanded of har as executrix by her children

Having a clew as to her appearance in Kenosha, Officer Hirsch was sent there on Saturday, only to learn that she had just returned to Chicago. All day Officers Lang, Sheehan and Blan seached for her at the homes of her relatives, but no trace of her was secured. In the evening they were told that she was at the home of Mrs. Berring, whose family she had known for several years. Here they found her hiding behind a trunk in a dark closet in fear of arrest.

In much trepidation Mrs. Beck, who is 60 years old, declared that she had run away because some of her relatives had told her the police were after her. Dring the period of her absence she had successively stayed with relatives on the west and south sides prior to her visit on the others in Kenosha. She declares that the $2,000 she took with her is in safekeeping. But more than this she could not be prevailed upon to say.

ENTIRE GANG WIPED OUT.

Police of Quincy Kill Two and Wound One of a Band of Crooks.

Quincy, Ill., Jan. 29.—The police of this city wiped out a gang of safeblowers Saturday night and Sunday morning, killing two of them and wounding the third. Joseph West and Charles Prince were shot dead while resisting arrest, and M. J. Crowley badly wounded. The men came here Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock with a full supply of burglar tools and nitroglycerin, with which to blow three safes, which they had picked out for their work. Prompt action on the part of the officers resulted in the shooting.

The two dead men are well-known crooks—Prince, the leader of the gang, having a national reputation as a safeblower and desperate crook. They have been operating in Galesburg, Keokuk, Burlington, and near-by towns.

Dakota Sheep Men Organize.

Hot Springs, S. D., Jan. 29.—The sheep men of the northern part of the Black hills have organized another association, with headquarters at Belle Fourche. It includes sheep men of western South Dakota, northeastern Wyoming and southern Montana. It is estimated that 200,000 pounds of wool will be marketed at Belle Fourche this year, and the sheep men do not want to ship direct from the cars, as heretofore, preferring to store in a warehouse and be enabled to await a favorable market.

Hair to Be Cut by Law.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 29.—A bill has been introduced in the provincial parliament entitled, "For the regulation of the length of hair that may be worn by employes in the metalliferous and other mines of British Columbia. The object is to take advantage of the oriental superstition in favor of the queue, and by a law of seemingly general application to avoid technical discrimination—on which ground a previous measure seeking to exclude Chinamen from the mines was vetoed.

Jerome W. Hoot Arrested.

Waterloo, Iowa, Jan. 29.—Jerome W. Hoot, charged with the crime of sending an infernal machine to his wife last October, has been captured at New Orleans. Never in the history of Iowa has a case, short of cold-blooded, premeditated murder, attracted so much attention as Hoot's alleged attempt on his wife's life. The police say they have conclusive evidence of Hoot's guilt.

Priest's Death a Mystery.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—The mystery surrounding the death of the Rev. Father Joseph Sullivan, whose body was found early Saturday morning at the vicarage of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, is still unsolved. The remains were viewed today by hundreds of people. Funeral services were held today and the body shipped to Worcester, Mass.

Knocked Out Husband's Eye.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 29.—Del Hunter, a coal miner of Virden, quarreled with his wife at their home, and she knocked one of his eyes out with a hatchet. Hunter is in a precarious condition.

COLD WAVE OF WIDE EXTENT.

Thermometer Below Zero and Blizzard Prevails in Several States.

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Reports from various points throughout Illinois show the state to be swept by a cold wave of great intensity. Fears are entertained for the winter wheat crop, which is not protected by snow. Advices from St. Paul and other northwestern points are that a violent blizzard prevails throughout Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 29.—The mercury is at 10 degrees below zero. In western Nebraska it is 11 degrees colder, with considerable snow. A hurricane has prevailed through the state for many hours. Stock is suffering some, but because of the splendid weather previously the range cattle are in fine condition, and could stand much worse weather.

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 29.—The thermometer here is at zero, and rapidly sinking. It is predicted that this blizzard will wipe out the winter wheat crops in southern and central Wisconsin, where there has been little or no snow to protect the grain.

Valparaiso, Ind., Jan. 29.—Within thirty-six hours the temperature has dropped from 50 above to 7 below.

Clinton, Iowa, Jan. 29.—The thermometer registers 15 degrees below zero, and a brisk wind prevails.

St. Joseph, Mich., Jan. 29.—The worst southwest gale of the season, accompanied with snow, has been prevailing in this vicinity during the last twenty-four hours. A blinding blizzard prevails, with the temperature 5 above zero.

Scale in a Conference Deadlock.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 29.—The miners and operators' scale conference is already in a deadlock. The very first demand of the miners was for the run-of-mine system, to which the operators announced they would never submit. The latter then submitted their proposition, which is to increase wages 10 cents a ton, retaining the present differential and screen measurement, and this in turn the miners' members of the conference promptly repudiated, Ryan of Illinois stating that if the operators had nothing better to offer they might as well go home.

New York, Jan. 29.—Chief Postoffice Inspector John D. King of the New York bureau says that when the present year is over the green-goods game will have been stamped out as effectually as the Louisiana lottery and star-route frauds have been, notwithstanding the fact that the green-goods operators are as many now as they ever were.

Attention is Naturally Excited When Anything is Praised by People Whom We Know.

A thing that stands high in the estimation of the public, and which is especially recommended by Janesville people; naturally excites our attention more than if our own people did not praise the article. Battling with the Snow.

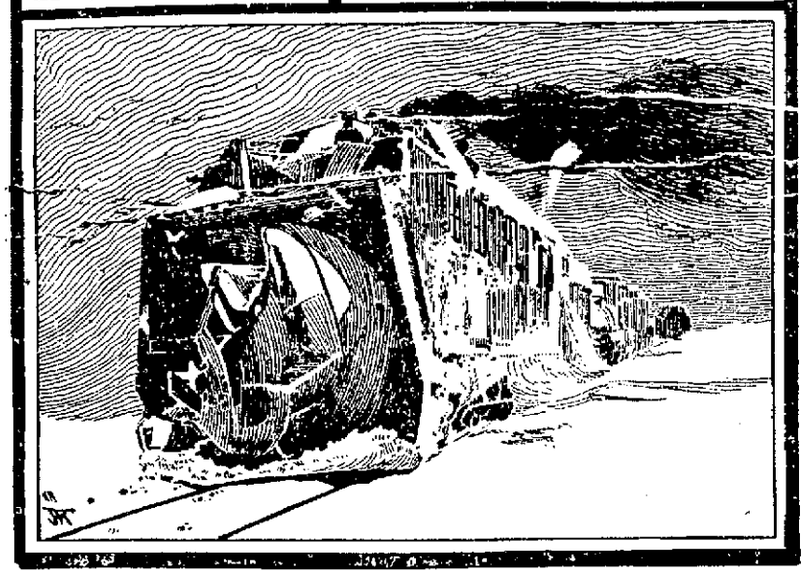
By Cyrus Sylvester.



ROTARY SNOWPLOW AFTER A BATTLE WITH DRIFTS.

It is at this season of the year that the continent crossing railroads begin their annual battle with the snow. It is a battle which will be waged intermittently until early in April. You will hear very little about it.

Once in awhile you will read a ten line paragraph telling the brief story of how the overland mail was stalled somewhere in the Rockies for 10 or 20 or maybe 36 hours and of how the passengers broke up the car seats to keep steam in the engine, or there may be novel developments, such as a snowslide sweeping a crew of snow fighters over a 300 foot precipice.

But the everyday details of how the railroad men keep clear the steel path of the big moguls are seldom put into print. Yet they are interesting, these details. The very magnitude of the task makes it an attractive one to contemplate—that is, for the people who have no share in the responsibility.

A dozen years ago it was quite common for transcontinental communication to be entirely blocked for many days at a time by heavy snowfalls. Modern machinery and up to date railroad methods have made such delays next to impossible in this the fag end of the century. Instead of days the duration of possible delays has been reduced to hours.

Two things have contributed to this improved state of affairs. One is the rotary snowplow; the other is the snowshed system. Of course it would be impractical to roof over thousands of miles of track, so only the most exposed cuts have been housed. The big rotaries take care of the rest.

One transcontinental railroad has 45 miles of snowsheds whose entire cost runs up into the millions of dollars. No less than 500 employees are engaged in looking after these sheds. Another line has 32 miles of snowsheds which cost a total of over $10,000,000. The cost of maintaining these sheds is something like $1,000,000 a year.

The reason for this is that in summer, when the sheds are not needed, they become dry as tinder and catch fire under the slightest pretense. Buildings of any sort on the barren mountains have been found to be desirable shelter for tramps. Besides, they have offered a convenient cover for the operations of mischief doers and train wreckers. Fires once started in them rage through the long structures like so many horizontal chimneys, completely destroying them and by the fierce and concentrated heat warping and twisting rails and making the track useless.

As late as last October 6,400 feet of the Central Pacific's snowsheds were burned between Cisco and Emigrant Gap, badly damaging a steel bridge and causing a total loss of $50,000. In August, 1898, one of four tramps riding on a freight train threw a lighted match or cigarette stump into a tank car containing gasoline, causing an explosion which killed two of the vagabonds and destroyed 18 cars filled with freight, with 2,800 feet of snowsheds.

In winters of heavy snowfall the weight of the snow alone has sometimes caused disaster. During the stormy year and snow blockades of 1884-5 nearly a mile of snowsheds were swept away at Yuba pass, a few miles west of Cisco.

In order to afford necessary protection to these important structures the railroad management is obliged to take them under special protection and supervision. To this end they have established a permanent observation station on Signal peak, the highest point of Red mountain. This peak commands a view of 35 miles of the snowsheds, embracing nearly all the sheds between Blue canyon and Summit. Here two faithful observers, in alternate shifts, are on duty day and night from June 1 to Nov. 1 in every year. Never do astronomers search the skies more diligently for new constellations than do these patient watchers sweep the long, gray lines of shingled roof for a curling line of smoke that shall signify some incipient blaze.

But when the blizzards bred up in Medicine Hat come roaring across the Rockies, filling every cut with snow, the shed covered tracks are as clean as a rain washed bone, and the vigilance of the railroad men is rewarded. Then it is that the open cuts and the exposed reaches need attention. Little flurries of snow on the level and a gradual but continuous spreading of white on the tops and in the upper crevices of the mountains give warning that the hard, desperate battles of the winter months are at hand.

The superintendent takes a trip over the road with his assistants, and a careful inspection of the sheds and tunnels is made. In divisional headquarters the rotaries and the old time "buckers" are overhauled and prepared for use, and as the middle of the month approaches the watchmen who patrol the tracks are doubled.

In the various baggage cars are placed great wooden safes packed with condensed foods. Beef in the form of extract, canned soups, condiments and hard bread, enough to feed 100 persons for ten days, are carefully deposited in these moving storehouses, and from then until the coming of spring they are inspected and overhauled once each week by men detailed for the purpose.

The first call for the fighting contingent of the vast railway army is always attended by scenes of excitement. In the old days when the rotaries were weapons of the future and the snow had to be literally "bucked" by main force from the tracks casualties were frequent. The type of plow used was a homemade affair, a product of the railway shops. It consisted of a re-enforced and strongly braced box car as a base, upon one end of which was built an iron tipped, plow shaped something like a lofty cowcatcher. Near the top the sides were so arranged that the snow masses were directed into the air at an angle.

Sometimes it happened that the drift in the cut was composed of damp snow and had had time to settle and become packed. Then the perils of snow bucking became perils in truth. The "bucker" with its powerful motive force of seven or eight locomotives was hurled at the drift, and one of two results followed. Either the drift was broken or the "bucker" crumpled up like a toy of cardboard.

Stories are still told of the catastrophies occurring during one hard winter many years ago; of how in one instance a "bucker," three engines and 14 men were buried in a mass of snow for 90 hours and that when the rescuing party finally reached them the imprisoned men were incased at their posts like the baker of Pompeii. Today there are no such tragedies. The invention of the rotary plow has made the clearing away of snow obstructions a comparatively easy task.

In appearance the rotary plow is like a huge box car strengthened with heavy iron girders and plates. The front end is square and open and within can be seen a great steel winged wheel somewhat similar to the ordinary windmill. The edges of the opening slope inward and are strongly reenforced with iron.

The "auger," or wheel, revolves upon an axle, and as the plow is forced against the drift the snow is eaten away and blown through funnels pitched at an angle above the machine. It is seldom that more than two engines are required to push the rotary, as it works by cutting instead of brute force, like the old time "bucker." Railroad men are great admirers of the new order of machine, and they never fail to praise its efficiency.

A Thorough Test.

"Dere's one t'ing about me," said Meandering Mike; "I ain't superstitious."

"Don't you believe in no lucky signs?" asked Plodding Pete.

"Nary. I know by experience dey's nothin in 'em. I've traveled de roads from Maine to California. Jes' look at me. I don't look lucky, do I?"

"Not a bit."

"An yet I'm willin to bet I've found more hoss shoes dan any other man in de world."—Washington Star.

A NEW PROPHETESS.

Brilliant Minneapolis Woman Becomes a Theosophical Leader.

Mrs. Kate Buffington Davis of Minneapolis, one of the high priestesses of theosophy, has started on a tour through the west. She intends to spread knowledge of the mystic faith over as much of that section of the country lying west of the Mississippi as she can conveniently canvass. She will go as far south as Mexico, west to California and north to British Columbia, lecturing to little bands of students and establishing branches wherever possible.

Mrs. Davis is a woman of great energy and talent. She is the daughter of a prominent Indiana journalist and grew up in an atmosphere of culture. She has studied deeply and written not a little for magazines. Chance threw some theosophical literature in her way, and she became interested. Here was a belief that seemed to solve the doubts that had tormented her. She soon became absorbed in the study, and it was not long before she was contributing to the theosophical publications.

Since 1891 she has been prominently identified with the work in America. At the time of the international convention in 1894 she went abroad and met many of the theosophical leaders. W. Q. Judge crossed on the same steamer, and a pleasant acquaintance soon ripened into friendship. Colonel Olcutt, Mrs. Annie Besant and others extended a hand of welcome and gave the Minneapolis woman all the help they could.

At the time of the secession, when the Universal Brotherhood took many of the members from the national body, Mrs. Davis was chosen a member of the national board. The board consists of four members, the other three being men. Mrs. Davis has served almost continuously since her first appointment.

JAPAN'S CROWN PRINCE.

Is Coming to America to Spend His Honeymoon.

Prince Yoshihito, crown prince of Japan, who is to visit this country with his bride the coming spring, is a slender, undersized young man who is chiefly interesting because he will some day succeed to what there is left of imperial prerogative in the land of the chrysanthemum. As a boy he was almost an invalid, and for many years it was thought that he would never reach his majority. But his health has improved of late. He has been crown prince ever since he was 8 years old. He will be 21 next August.

His affianced bride is the Princess Teiko, who is his cousin. She is a most charming young woman, of course. She has the reputation of being the most beautiful woman in her country and the ideal type of Japanese womanhood. The announcement of the coming marriage has caused great satisfaction throughout Japan, because it gives reasonable assurance that the throne will be occupied by a scion of the present royal house for many years to come.

The marriage will take place in the spring, and immediately afterward the royal couple will start on their trip. They will first visit all of the largest cities in Europe and will sail for America about July 1. In New York they will be met by a delegation composed of the wealthiest Japanese in the country, several of whom are related to the royalty. From New York they will go to Philadelphia and afterward will visit Washington, Boston, Chicago and San Francisco.

He Added a Clincher.

James Russell Lowell used to tell the story that one of the gentlemen he met in Chicago had a great deal to say of his travels in Europe. Lowell remarked that Georges Sand was one of his favorite authors. This reference to the great Frenchwoman called forth a characteristic rejoinder. "Oh, yes!" exclaimed the representative of Chicago culture, "I have had many a happy hour with Sand." "You knew Georges Sand, then?" asked Lowell, with an expression of surprise. "Knew him? Well, I should rather say I did," cried the Chicago man, and then he added, as a clincher: "I roomed with him in Paris."

A "drag" for One Penny.

On Saturday night, in the London streets, one meets numbers of men walking automatically, their teeth clenched, their look fixed. They do not sing nor speak a word, but suddenly fall like logs. It is a miracle that they do not fracture their skulls on the pavement. To these men, in the bars of virtuous England, has been dispensed for the sum of 1 penny a pint of an atrocious mixture composed of the dregs of bottles and casks of gin, whisky, absinthe, etc. I do not know the name of this horrible concoction, but I have seen its terrible effects.

'Tis Well We Can't.

"We'd all be so discouraged that none of us would ever have the heart to go ahead and be great."—Chicago Daily News.

THE WIDE AWAKE,

W. W. EMMONS & CO., Props.

A REUNION.

Leaving Paris by railroad, I entered a compartment already occupied by two elderly men, intent upon their newspapers, and a woman and a boy, from their semblance to one another evidently mother and son. From the moment I took my seat these two filled me with interest. The young man spoke to me, and I recognized him as some one I had met once or twice, but he did not offer to introduce me to his companion, in whom he was completely absorbed.

The conversation between mother and son was so animated that one could not choose but hear, and as they were perfectly oblivious of all save each other, I listened with undisguised interest to the exchange of confidence which proved how well each knew the other, how completely each trusted, how deep was the devotion existing between them.

It was very beautiful to see, this perfect confidence between mother and son, and I felt that there was no need to fear for that boy's future life. The memory of his mother's love would grow forever in his heart long after she should be gone from him, keeping out evil and fostering good.

He had evidently finished his first year in the university, and she had gone to Paris to meet and accompany him home.

"How glad your father will be to see you again!" she said. "He will not be at the station, as his knee is hurting him again, but he will go as far as the gate. I will wager that he is there already. And Jeanne and Claudine, too, all eager to see you. Ah, my boy, we have missed you sorely. Madeline will be there, too, most likely."

At the mention of this last name the boy's eyes left his mother's face for the first time, and he looked out of the window without replying. This did not escape the mother, and a faint, troubled look crossed her face. She changed the subject.

"And did you pass your examinations well, Jean?"

"Fairly well, mother," replied the boy, bringing his gaze back to her again.

"I suppose we ought to begin to plan for your future. Every advantage we can give you you shall have, and it is our hope that you will take up a profession. Do you think you would care to study medicine?"

"Not as well as something else. How would you like to have me an engineer?"

"Anything you like, dear, is sure to suit me."

They talked on, planning details of study and work for the next few years. Suddenly the mother said:

"I am happy to have you again, Jean, and yet this talk of your future fills me with something like sadness and fear. You know every mother is jealous of her place in her boy's heart and anxious that, if she should ever be displaced by another, that other should be worthy. Just now we spoke of Madeline, and I saw a change in you that made my heart contract with a sudden little spasm of foolish jealousy."

The boy's face flushed painfully, but his eyes remained steadfastly fixed on hers while she continued:

"If you ever love, and you are sure to, my hope and prayer are that she may be good and true, loving you as you love her, that you may taste to its full the cup of happiness found in the marriage of two congenial souls. With that I will content myself when I am no longer first in your affection."

The boy leaned forward and took her hand.

"No one shall ever take your place," he said. "If there should ever be any one else, she will have to make a new one and occupy that."

Both laughed, the woman's eyes moist, and the conversation flowed on happily again.

As evening drew on the train stopped at a little station where we three were the only ones to alight, and where I hoped to make connections with another train. I found we were two hours late, and my train had not waited. I would have to remain there in the little station for three hours. I was greatly annoyed and asked the guard if there was a cafe in the town.

The young man, who had overheard our talk, approached me and begged me that I accept his mother's invitation to go home with them to dinner.

"I cannot let you wait here three long hours," she said kindly. "If you will come with us and partake of a simple family dinner, we shall be very glad to have you."

I accepted gladly, and together we walked along the country road.

At the gate of the pretty little house, as the mother had predicted, stood the father. Beside him were three young girls, two of whom dashed through the gate and down the path as we came in sight.

I was forgotten in the first greetings between brother and sisters, father and son. When Jean turned to the figure in white standing a little apart, the mother remembered me, and I was introduced to the others.

Never have I enjoyed a dinner as I did that one. The repast was simple, the dining room cool and fragrant with flowers, and the faces gathered about the snowy cloth radiant with happiness. Jean sat next to Madeline, and I saw that the mother's suspicions were well founded by the glances the young people exchanged. Well might she be content with her son's choice, thought I, for a sweeter, more womanly face I never saw than that of the young girl opposite me.

My three hours flew by, and I took leave of the family, thanking them heartily for their kindness to me.

As I walked along the road to the station the stars were coming out in the pale sky and an utter peace seemed to descend over all nature, whose spirit pervaded my being. I felt refreshed, strengthened by the atmosphere of family love in which I had so recently been enveloped.

"And they form but one of many," I thought, and the reflection thrilled me with joy. "Nowhere in the world is 'the family' what it is with us. In it is developed our patriotism. It is the secret of our power; it is the very cornerstone of France."—Chicago News.

Ebony.

Ebony was esteemed as an article of luxury by the ancients. In India it was employed by kings for scepters and images and, as it was supposed to annul the power of poisons, was often made into drinking cups.

SMALL PIPES

And Mild Tobacco Satisfy the Desires of Japanese Smokers.

Washington Star: "You may have noticed that the Japanese who visit America are very moderate smokers," said a prominent Japanese now traveling in the United States. "Those of my countrymen who indulge in the weed mostly smoke cigarettes or preferably the smallest pipes filled with the mildest tobacco obtainable. Of course, there are Japanese who, like some Americans, have such a craving for tobacco that nothing less than the strongest cigar or the largest pipe will satisfy them. But such smokers are exceptionally few among the Japanese. As a rule, my countrymen, while at home and abroad, are satisfied with short smokes, such as a cigarette or a tiny pipe affords. The Japanese are moderate smokers, not so much because they are small people, but for the reason that up to within recent years but very little tobacco came into Japan and the tariff on it was very high. Being a poor but frugal race, the masses purchased only limited quantities of the weed, which, as a matter of economy, they have for generations been taught to smoke in only the tiniest of pipes. These pipes, the most popular of which hold about as much tobacco as would fill an ordinary thimble, are the survival of the days when money was scarce, tobacco dear and the tariff high. In another generation or two, when Japan shall have taken her place among the wealthy nations of the world, my countrymen will no doubt smoke large quantities of tobacco, and then the small pipes will be abandoned for big ones, such as Englishmen and Americans now smoke."

A Sofa Pillow Cover.

Cut scraps of lining into two inch squares and pieces of silk or worsted into four inch squares. Baste the silk to the lining, putting the extra fullness in a plait in the center of each side. This makes a puff of each little block. Sew as many little blocks together as needed to cover the pillow. By sorting the colors and shading from the center a handsome pillow cover may be fashioned of either silks, worsteds or velvets, says a Ladies' World correspondent.

For an Excellent Reason.

"Mr. Speaker," said the honorable member from Cattawampus county, in a voice that trembled with indignation, "I wish, sir, to refute the assertion that the people of my section of the state prefer the muddy, bottomless, barbarous, and beastly roads of their ancestors to the hard, firm roads that mark the advance of civilization. I wish, I say, to refute that imputation!"

"Well," said the speaker, "why don't you?"

"I can't!" responded the honorable member from Cattawampus, wiping the perspiration from his brow and sitting down.—Chicago Tribune.
